

University of East-West Medicine

國際醫藥大學

Continuing Education for LAc's & RNs

12 units

The University of East-West Medicine is an approved provider of continuing education for California licensed acupuncturists and registered nurses. This is an excellent opportunity to increase your knowledge of medicine and learn more about health and healing. These courses include various topics and excellent demonstrations.

Seminar Number: CEU 1011-1013

Title: Advanced Techniques

May. 9th	Introduction of eye-acupuncture	CEU1011	9am-1pm (4 units)	($55)
	different understanding of paralysis on stroke of both TCM and modern rehabilitation	CEU 1012	2pm-6pm (4 units)	($55)
May. 10th	clinical research analysis and typical cases discussion	CEU 1013	9am-1pm (4 units)	($55)

Note: For Seminars CEU 1011- CEU 1013, total 12 units, the fee will be discounted by 10% when you register for more than two seminars. UEWM alumni/students will receive a 20% discount on any fees.

Location: 595 Lawrence Expy, Sunnyvale, CA 94085

Guest Speaker Bibliography for Seminar CEU 1011-1013: Jian Wang

Back ground description: Professor Jian Wang is from the Affiliated Hospital of Liaoning University of Traditional Chinese Medicine. He is not only a renowned TCM specialist on acupuncture treatment of depression and ischemia stroke, but also he took an important role to do a research on eye- acupuncture, which was funded by National Basic Research Program of China-973 program. Professor Jian Wang has practiced for 28 years, and he is a mentor of Master and Doctor Degree students and gives lectures to graduate students at Liaoning University of Traditional Chinese Medicine for 21 years. He was overseas experience in teaching and clinical practice.

Course Description: Eye-acupuncture has been invented by Professor Jingshan Peng in 1970's, who is a well known TCM professor in Liaoning university of Traditional Chinese Medicine. Eye-acupuncture is a brand-new and effective technique, which has a series of complete theory, and unique diagnosis location system, and acupoint-picking principle, and diagnosis directly guiding treatment. Beginning from treating stroke with obvious effects, it has been used in many areas, such as internal & external medicine, gynecology, and pediatrics. After eye-acupuncture won advance of science and technology second prize of State Administration of Traditional Chinese Medicine in 1990, this technique has been nationally learned as an extension technology. Meanwhile, it has been listed on Golden Bridge Program of the 8th five-year plan for national economic and social development advocated by the Ministry of Public Health in China. This technique began to be very popular in Korea, Hong Kong, United States, Italian, et al.

Cancellation/Refund Policy: If you notify UEWM CEU office at least one week before a scheduled conference or seminar that you are unable to attend, you will receive a full refund. Notification received less than one week before a scheduled conference or seminar a $25 administration fee will be charged. Notification and request for a refund must be submitted in written format. If you are a no-show, no fees will be refunded. Refunds will be processed within six weeks after they are requested.

Note: UEWM reserves the right to cancel any event in its reasonable discretion. In the event of cancellation by UEWM, registration fees will be refunded in full. UEWM shall have no further liability. There will be a $20 handling fee for returned checks. No refund of fees will be made for people who must leave the Seminars early.

Provider Statement: Approval by the California Acupuncture Board, CEP #259, and the California Board of Registered Nursing, CEP #13283, for 12 hours of continuing education.

If you attend the UEWM continuing education programs, make sure you attend the entire seminar. Arrive on time. Do not leave early or come and go from the lecture. If we have not gotten your three signatures during one day, which will be signed randomly, you will not qualify to get your certificate for 8 CEUs per day. If you cannot show up for the whole day, 8-hour lectures, we cannot provide you with an 8-unit certificate.

Phone number: (408) 481-9988 ext. 123 Register online at www.uewm.edu E-mail: ceu@uewm.edu